LOS ANGELES COUNTY
EMPLOYEE RELATIONS COMMISSION

In the Matter of
PROFESSIONAL PEACE OFFICER'S ASSOCIATION,

Charging Party

and

SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT,
COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES,

Respondent

Case No. UFC 9.3

Report of Hearing Officer

The undersigned was appointed by the Los Angeles County Employee Relations Commission to serve as Hearing Officer in the above captioned matter, in which the Charging Party alleged the commission of certain unfair employee relations practices by the Respondent. The Respondent filed an Answer to Charge which admitted certain allegations of the charge but offered an affirmative defense. Pursuant to the charge and Notice of Hearing issued by the executive officer of the Commission, a hearing was held at the Hall of Administration on December 10, 1974, at which time the parties were afforded the opportunity to offer evidence and arguments upon the issues. Appearing for the Charging Party was Lester G. Ostrov of Bodle, Fogel, Julber, Reinhardt & Rothschild. Appearing for Respondent were John M. Baskett, Deputy County Counsel, and Ramon R. Singley, Employee Relations Administrator of the Department of Personnel. Upon the filing by the parties of written briefs on February 8, 1975, the hearing closed. The undersigned, having duly considered all the evidence and arguments offered by the parties, submits this Report in accordance with Section 6.10 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations.

I. THE ISSUES

The charge alleges that the Respondent engaged in unfair employee relations practices within the meaning of Section 12 (a) (1) and (3)

1 of the Employee Relations Ordinance on the basis of the following:

2                   On or about January 8, 1974, the Sheriff's Department 3                   of the County of Los Angeles instituted unilateral changes and 4                   reductions in the overtime compensation for deputies in the state-5                   wide transportation detail with respect to out-of-town work. These 6                   unilateral changes were made without prior notification to and 7                   without negotiations with Los Angeles County Professional Peace
8                   Officer's Association, the certified representative of said employees.

9                   The answer submitted by the Respondent admits the factual 10                  basis set forth above but states in defense that its action concerning overtime 11                  compensation was taken pursuant to and in accordance with County Ordinance 12                  No. 6222, Article 8, Section 140. The answer further states that from about 13                  March 4, 1974 to May 7, 1974 the parties were in negotiations concerning 14                  wages, hours and terms and conditions of employment but that the Charging 15                  Party, although aware of the Respondent's action concerning overtime com-16                  pensation, made no request that the Respondent negotiate concerning overtime 17                  compensation. On these grounds the Respondent denies that it committed any 18                  unfair employee relations practices.

19 II.       THE FACTS

20                   Since about 1965 it was the practice of the Respondent to 21                   allow members of its state-wide transportation detail eight hours of overtime 22                   for each day they were out of Los Angeles County overnight engaged in 23                   prisoner movement. The practice was specifically confirmed and continued 24                   on November 15, 1971 in a memorandum issued by the Respondent's Inspector, 25                   Technical Services. On January 8, 1974, without prior warning or notice to 26                   either the Charging Party or the members of the state-wide transportation 27                   detail, the Respondent issued TDO (temporary departmental order) 143.1.
28                   This order set forth a number of regulations describing circumstances in 29                   which overtime might or might not be credited. Among other things it stated:

30                   On such trips lasting more than one day, members shall be 31                   considered on duty at the time they report to their Unit of Assignment 32                   or leave directly from their residence, as applicable. Actual time

1 spent in traveling and in carrying out their business shall be 2 considered as time worked. Time spent in eating, sleeping, or 3 in recreation (free time) shall not be considered as time worked.
4 However, on any day that the member is actually engaged with 5 outside persons in the conduct of the Department's business, he 6 shall be credited as working a full shift. If the member is unable 7 to conduct business because it is a Saturday, Sunday, or legal 8 holiday, such days shall be considered as free time and con-9 sidered as a regular day off.

10 It was testified, and I find, that the implementation of this order resulted in 11 a new method of computing overtime for days when the members of the state-12 wide transportation detail were out of the county overnight and it caused a 13 material reduction in the overtime credited to those employees. It appears 14 that the order was intended to have such effect.

15 The order, although effective January 8, 1974, was not 16 made known to the members of the detail concerned until two days later. The 17 Charging Party's chairman testified that he learned of the order in late Jan-18 uary, 1974. However, no copy of the order was given to the Charging Party 19 or its chairman until two or three months later, when the chairman asked the 20 Department for a copy. The deputies affected by the order filed a written 21 grievance concerning it early in April, 1974. This grievance was brought to 22 the attention of PPOA and apparently gave rise to the chairman's request for 23 a copy of the order. The grievance was denied by the Departmental author-24 ities at each stage of its processing, and was finally denied in writing on 25 May 17. It happened that the Memorandum of Understanding between the 26 parties reopened for negotiation early in 1974. On February 1, 1974 PPOA 27 submitted its negotiation proposals in writing and negotiations started early 28 in March. A Notice of Impasse was issued in mid-April. The negotiations 29 continued with the assistance of a mediator and fact-finding was initiated on 30 disputed issues but agreement was reached in July before the fact-finding 31 process was completed. At no time was the issue as to the method of com-32 puting overtime raised in the negotiations by either party.

1     III.                     Was there a refusal to negotiate within the meaning of 2     Section 12 (a) (3)?

3                     Section 12 (a) (3) states that it shall be an unfair labor 4     practice for the County to refuse to negotiate with representatives of certified 5     employee organizations on negotiable matters.

6                     The Respondent concedes that PPOA is the certified em-7     ployee organization for certain of its employees, including those in the state-8     wide transportation detail, and further concedes that on January 8, 1974 it 9     instituted a unilateral change in the method of computing overtime benefits for 10    employees in the detail without giving notice to PPOA or inviting negotiations 11    as to the changes or the effects of the changes. For an employer unilaterally 12    to change an established condition of employment during the middle of a con-13    tract term, as the Respondent has done in this case, without affording notice, 14    warning, or opportunity for discussion or negotiation before the change takes 15    effect, presumptively constitutes a constructive refusal to negotiate. Only 16    the most compelling circumstances might excuse such action. The County 17    defense in this case is that the changes were compelled by Section 140 (4) of 18    the Salary Ordinance of the County of Los Angeles.

19                     Section 140 (4) is a definition clause which states:

20                     " 'Overtime' means time spent in the performance of work ordered 21                     and approved or authorized by a department head which is in excess 22                     of the number of hours regularly worked in the workweek or workday. "

23     The Respondent declares, without amplification or explanation, that its 24     previous method of computing overtime for the statewide transportation detail 25     was in violation of Section 140 (4) because it paid for time not actually worked, 26     but that its revised method of computing overtime is in compliance with the 27     Section because it pays only for time actually worked.

28                     The Respondent's position fails to explain the fact that from 29     1965 to January 8, 1974 its method of computing overtime for the statewide 30     transportation detail remained unchanged, and that the definition of overtime 31     has appeared in each Salary Ordinance of the County in identical language in 32     every fiscal year from July 1, 1969 to, and including, the present time. The

1 Respondent has failed to offer any explanation whatsoever as to what caused 2 it in January, 1974 to reach the opinion that such a long established method of 3 calculating overtime had become illegal despite the fact that the applicable 4 legal provisions had long remained unchanged. The record is barren of any 5 suggestion that a challenge to the legality of the established method of com-6 puting overtime had been raised by any authority outside the Department. No 7 crucial event occurred which compelled a sudden change in the method of 8 computing overtime. No incident arose which compelled the conclusion that 9 the method which long had been considered legal was now illegal. Even 10 assuming that the Departmental authorities had some basis for questioning 11 the prevailing method of computing overtime, there has been offered no ex-12 planation as to why the method was arbitrarily changed without notice or 13 opportunity to confer. The Respondent avers that its action was taken as a 14 good faith attempt to correct improper and illegal payments of overtime com-15 pensation. The Respondent's good faith is not questioned in this regard but 16 its actions, even concluding that they were taken in good faith, were not con-17 sonant with its obligation to negotiate.

18           The question as to what constitutes "the performance of 19 work" by a human being is not so easily susceptible to definition as the Res-20 pondent suggests. The highest courts have struggled with the concept in 21 many cases involving such matters as overtime pay. As noted above, the 22 Respondent asserted that its previous basis for computing overtime included 23 payment for hours when no work was performed but it has offered no evidence 24 to support the assertion. The Charging Party has offered evidence that 25 deputies in the statewide transportation detail may have responsibility for 26 prisoners overnight, even though they do not have physical custody of the 27 prisoners, and that they may be continuously on call overnight in case prob-28 lems arise. I find it unnecessary in this case to determine that either 29 method used by the Department for computing overtime is legal, or that one 30 method is more legal than the other. I do find that the County has failed to 31 establish that its method of computation used prior to January 8, 1974 was 32 ever illegal or ever became illegal.

1 IV. Was the Charging Party remiss in failing to raise the 2 issue in the 1974 negotiations?

3 The Respondent contends that, even assuming it had a duty 4 to negotiate concerning the change in computing overtime pay, that duty was 5 offset or mitigated by the Charging Party's failure to submit the issue on its 6 list of proposals for the 1974-1975 negotiations. The Charging Party claims 7 that it had neither the opportunity nor the obligation to raise the issue in 8 negotiations. The Memorandum of Understanding between the parties pro-9 vides that either party desiring to negotiate shall serve upon the other between 10 January 1 and January 31 its full and entire written proposals, except for 11 salary proposals. The members of the statewide transportation detail be-12 came aware of the change by January 10 and the Charging Party's chairman 13 became aware of the change some time in late January. However, the chair-14 man of the PPOA committee which was charged with formulating the negotia-15 tion proposals for 1974 testified that he was unaware of the change until long 16 after the deadline for submitting proposals had passed. In any case, I believe 17 it is clear that the Department had full opportunity to raise the issue in 18 negotiations had it chosen to do so, and that it cannot now shift the obligation 19 to negotiate from its own shoulders to those of the Charging Party. That is 20 particularly true in the circumstances of this case, where the party which 21 effectuated the change did not even serve notice on the other organization 22 until long after the time allotted for raising the issue in negotiations had 23 passed.

24 V. Did the refusal to negotiate violate Section 12 (a) (1) ?

25 Section 12(a) (1) states that it shall be an unfair employee 26 relations practice for the County to interfere with, restrain or coerce em-27 ployees in the exercise of the rights recognized or granted in the ordinance.
28 Similar statutes long have been interpreted to mean that a violation of the 29 obligation to negotiate, ipso facto, interferes with, restrains and coerces 30 employees in their rights to self organization. I find that to be so in this case.

31 VI. CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

32 For the reasons set forth above I conclude that the Res-

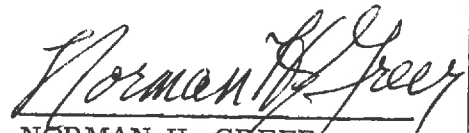

1 pondent, by the issuance of TDO 143.1 on January 8, 1974, engaged in an 2 unfair employee relations practice within the meaning of Section 12(a)(1) and 3 (3) of the Employee Relations Ordinance of the County of Los Angeles.

4 Accordingly, it is recommended that:

5 (1) TDO 143.1 be rescinded and the prior existing order be 6 reinstated.

7 (2) Overtime benefits which have been affected by TDO 143.1 8 shall be recomputed in accordance with the prior existing order and each 9 member of the statewide transportation detail adversely affected by TDO 143.1 10 shall be made whole for benefits of which he was thereby deprived.

11 (3) Nothing in the foregoing shall prevent the Respondent from 12 raising an issue with the Charging Party as to a change in the basis of com-13 puting future overtime for members of the statewide transportation detail.
14 Such an issue, if raised, shall be subject to negotiations and agreement be-15 tween the parties and, if agreement does not result, shall be subject to the 16 terms of Section 13 of the Employee Relations Ordinance.
